Personal Style and Feedback

The combination of Corina's international experience, her legal background, and mediator and coaching experience is determining the way of her work – analytical, efficient, and solution oriented. She understands her role as a mediator as a "process facilitator". Corina supports her clients in finding and strengthening their positions and interests and at the same time in understanding the different views and perspectives of their counterparties.

Corina works with the conflict parties individually before and during the mediation. With good active listening skills and diligent exploration, she manages to evaluate the core issues of a case and achieve a good understanding of the bargaining positions. Together with the parties, she is able to create a problem-solving atmosphere and find a reasonable deal that fits all the parties involved.

- "Built good rapport." "Felt taken care off and understood" and "very empathetic".
- "Calm and very constructive approach."
- "Managed the process actively and helped finding a settlement within hours – after a lengthy nerve-wracking negotiation."
